Summary

Experienced Data Engineer transitioning into Data Science who loves to solve complex business problems with particular interest in the Healthcare domain. Known for quickly identifying the intricacies of a business process by working hand-in-hand with a client to ensure successful implementation of a solution. Project lead with a passion for utilizing automation, business insight, and teamwork across functional groups to drive bottom line results. I'm passionate about technology but I'm equally as passionate about investing in people and building up communities. A high performing team is always greater than the sum of its parts.
